

Sponge Pants Blue

The sponge pants game: a hilariously funny hexathlon event

A hilarious, unique and essential part of a hexathlon, or other games event. Whether it's a children's party, a town event, neighborhood get-together, or an event to inspire a team to work (more) closely together: Sponge Pants will become a true favorite at such parties or teambuilding events. It is suitable for young and old alike. The enormous pants have sponges attached to back, which the players have to use to drain a water tank on one side of the course, before squeezing out the water into a water tank on the other side. May the best player win! Please note: the price is per piece.

Sponge pants on, ready, set, go!

This simple water transport game is a hexathlon essential and it's simple to organize as well, because it's very easy to set up. All you need is a proper course with a full water tank on one end, and an empty one on the other. When participants have put on their pants, they are all set to go!
